The First Endowed Regional Scholarship Fund

During 1948 Mr. T. E. Huggins of Coral Gables, Florida, made an initial gift toward the endowment of a scholarship fund here at Wesleyan for the benefit of the girls of the Miami-Palm Beach area. In December 1948 Mr. Charles Merrill of Palm Beach, Florida, made a substantial gift to this scholarship fund.

The Board of Trustees of Wesleyan College set up the endowed scholarship, and during the past year Mr. T. E. Huggins has made an additional gift.

These are the first two gifts of this type for endowment and begin a plan which will doubtless appeal to citizens of other communities. Wesleyan will welcome such gifts from other benefactors, and will assist in setting up endowments which will help to educate the fine young women from their respective communities.

THE WESLEYAN ALUMNAE

THE CLASS OF 1934 — FIFTEEN YEARS LATER

Last summer the editors of The Wesleyan Alumnae read in the New York Times magazine an article based on answers from 1934 graduates of seven women's colleges to a questionnaire about the years since their graduation. We decided to send a similar questionnaire to our own 1934 graduates.

There were 57 A.B. and 10 B.M. graduates. One of the B.M. graduates was a boy (John W. Lewis); three of the class have died (Virginia McElroy and Nonie Rawlings Snow, A.B., and Evelyn Brannen Sibley, B.M.). Therefore last August we sent 63 questionnaires to the living women graduates of 1934.

"You weathered four of the worst depression years in the nation's history to get your diploma," said the letter which accompanied the questionnaire. "You had barely time to adjust yourself to being in the wide, wide world before World War II came along. It will be interesting to know how you feel about what life has brought to you."

All but three of the 63 have returned the questionnaire, which, in itself, is a matter for pride, for a national survey sent to 17,053 college graduates on similar topics produced a 59.1% response.

The answers seem to us to speak eloquently of the special way in which the Christian college helps to fit its graduates to meet life bravely and capably.

Notice as you read the results of the questionnaire that most of the class, whether career girls or wives and mothers, take an active part in the life of their communities and their churches. (In every city and small town in this section they, together with their Wesleyan sisters, make up the backbone of most good movements.)

Nearly all are registered voters, and at least half have participated actively in some fight for an issue they felt to be of importance.

The number of marriages in the class

(88%, or all but seven of the graduates) is higher than the New York Times report of 82%, and there have been only two divorces out of 46 marriages.

The number of children is an even 100, which includes one stepchild and four adopted children. There are 48 boys and 52 girls, and there is also one expected and one application in for adoption. Seven married alumnae have no children, so those who have any at all average more than two each! (The number per family ranges from one to six. The ages range from infancy to 15 years for the oldest "own child"; 16 the oldest stepchild.)

Deaths of only four children were mentioned in the answers. There are three sets of twins, a high percentage.

After filling in the blanks for maiden name and major subject in college the graduate of '34 went to Question 1, which was: Think back over the 15 years since your graduation, and tell briefly what you did to date, including date of marriage and name and business of husband if married. (It was promised that names would not be used in the report of the survey.)

Most of the class worked at something immediately after leaving Wesleyan, except those who married very soon, and 27 of those who had a try at earning their bread and butter did so as teachers. Ten did graduate work after Wesleyan; two traveled; one "loafed."

Three were married before 1934 was out; eight married in 1935; ten in 1936; nine in 1937, and then a sprinkling each year until as late as 1948.

The section called Your Life Today begins by asking: Do you believe that marriage and a career can be successfully combined? Twenty-two said "yes" to this; sixteen said "no," and the rest think that it might be possible under some conditions or with certain reservations. One alumna says: "Yes, but a good marriage should be a woman's first consideration, and be her career. Economic conditions sometimes make it advisable for a woman to take a job outside the home, but she can never lose sight of the fact that her family is her first consideration." (Regardless of their opinions on this subject, only seven of the married ones have jobs outside of their homes.)

Asked "Are you a member of a church?" all answered "yes" but three. Their denominations include: Methodist, Baptist, Episcopalian, Presbyterian, and Primitive Baptist. Ten said they did not participate actively in the program of the church, but the rest teach, sing in the choirs, lead WSCS, or Women's Auxiliary, or Guild, and generally help to carry on the work of their churches.

Under "What contribution are you making to your community outside of your home?" three members of the class admit "None"; nine do not answer, which we take to be a negative answer. The other 48 work for the Community Chest, League of Women Voters, Junior League, P.-T. A., Study Clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts, Wesleyan Alumnae Club, Garden Clubs, Music and Writers' Clubs. Those who have children make various arrangements for them (baby sitters, grandmothers, fathers or older children) while away from home. Several long-suffering alumnae say wearily that they never get away from home!

Of the three who failed to answer "Yes" to the question, "Are you a registered voter?" one gave no answer; one is living away from her home state; one has five small children.

Their social life centers around their homes mainly. Their leisure pursuits are the usual traveling, reading, sewing, gardening. Three enjoy refinishing old furniture; one collects records and one recital and concert programs; one paints and draws as a hobby.

The radio sponsors would be grieved to know how few listen to the usual run of radio programs. Most of those who listen to radio name specifically certain good musical programs. Some admit that they have to hear too many programs with the children. One says she likes radio and listens to anything; one says she is that unfortunate person, a radio hater in a household of radio lovers.

Nearly all enjoy reading, although one mother of six says she has had to forego the pleasure for a time for she is the type of reader who would not know if a child broke an arm just outside the window while she was in the middle of a book! Few care much for movies; most like plays, but get little chance to see one.

The section called "Looking Backward" asked: "Why did you select Wesleyan for your college? If you were 16 today would you choose a woman's college or a coeducational one? If you could live over your four college years, what would you like to have changed?"

Sixteen of the graduates said their families chose Wesleyan for them, one putting it this way, "My parents made me want to come." Six never knew there was another college within the range of possibility; they "grew up planning to go." Fourteen give much of the credit to alumnae, sometimes a relative, sometimes a teacher or Girl Scout leader. Twelve mention the reputation for sound educational values the college has in this section; three its Methodist associations; two its traditions; one the opportunities in music; one a scholarship. Ten came because it was in Macon, or near home; three gave "economic reasons." Some gave several of these reasons.

If they had it to do over, 40 would choose a woman's college again; twelve a coeducational school, and eight two years in a woman's college and two in a university. Most believe that women's colleges have more to offer women students in the way of opportunities for leadership, development of personality, etc.

In a backward look at their Wesleyan day, fourteen saw that time through rose-colored glasses, and would have nothing changed. "I guess I was as completely satisfied as anyone could have been," said one. Some realistic souls remember a few thorns. Eight mentioned "too strict rules," and one added, "I almost felt guilty when I had dates during vacations at home! I hear all is different now." Five would have taken different courses, four in the field of psychology (to help in rearing children), one in English. Nearly all of the town girls felt that they missed a great deal in not living on the campus. Three remembered the financial strain of that period. Six would have studied more; twelve felt that they spent too much time in study and not enough in making friends or in outside activities. One made this pathetic comment, "I should enjoy it more." Another, with adult wisdom, sees the fault as her own and not Wesleyan's: "I was a little too narrow-minded and smug."

Enjoy with us the answer of one harassed mother to this question: "Considering the battle I've had this rainy day with these three youngsters, I can think of nothing more wonderful than the peace I had at Wesleyan!"

The last part of the questionnaire called "The Summing-up" asked whether the alumna thought that life has been, to her, challenging and inspiring or frustrating and dreary, fully satisfying, or no worse than she expected?

Nobody finds it entirely frustrating and more drudgery than otherwise (unless the three who did not answer could not do so for this reason!). Most of the class have had more happiness than unhappiness, even those two whose marriages did not last. Some realistic souls cannot overlook the fact that cooking and picking up after children has a "dailiness" that gets monotonous. One says, "Life has not always been easy, but we are happy."

One of the class made us especially proud in a letter which accompanied her questionnaire. When she got the first one, she was in the midst of so much trouble, financial and domestic, that she would not return it after she filled it out. When our second reminder came she had worked out a solution to her problems and could "look at life with quiet eyes" and find it good. Never having had to earn a living before, she went out at 37 with nothing but her Wesleyan degree as preparation. At first she thought this a handicap, since she had never used it since her graduation. Today she has found work which she can feel is "really worth doing, and not just a job," and one where her degree and her age are assets.

To her Wesleyan training she gives much of the credit for the traits of character that would not let her give up!

Homecoming at Wesleyan

This year "homecoming" for the class just graduated was held, for the first time, on the week-end before Thanksgiving instead of Turkey Day as usual. But the joy of the "old grads" at being back on the campus is the same each year. If you don't believe it, read the following article by one of the returning alumnae which came out in The Wesleyan magazine in November, 1925.

I sat down with the full intention of writing something noble and inspiring on the subject of "What Wesleyan Has Meant to Me," but for the life of me, I cannot think of anything noble and inspiring on any subject! All I can think of is that tonight I am going back to Wesleyan for the first time since I left in June with a diploma and a terrible feeling that I was no longer a part of it at all.

I must be going back! My suitcase is already at the station, and my ticket is here in my bag, and I am quite sure they have promised me a half-holiday tomorrow. Yes, of course it is real!

I shall not go home as usual when five o'clock comes. Instead, I shall hustle into my coat and hat, drink a hasty cup of coffee at the little corner drug store, and make my way up Mitchell Street into the dusk to the terminal.

I shall wait, with the mass of other travelers, until the caller of trains yells something unintelligible which we shall interpret as "Dixie Flyer to Macon!" Then we shall grab our suitcases and boxes and shove one another excitedly toward the gate, for all the world as though we expected somebody to try to keep us from getting to the precious train at all!

Before we have left the railroad yard in Atlanta I expect I shall begin to press my nose against the window pane to see if we are not near enough to catch a glimpse of the towers of the Oldest and Best, and by the time I have come within glimpsing distance I shall be far too thrilled to see anything at all! Oh, the joy of running up the steps again as if I belonged!

There will be somebody on the porch. I shall not even know who it is, not until long afterward when I have come down to earth enough to be able to think clearly again. There will be girls in the halls and on the stairs and in the parlors. There will be two maids at the door who will know me, and will greet me with the most flattering lie, "Law, Miss, everybody sho do miss you!"

There will be the great clock in front of the door. (It always had a habit of running away with time, and I shall have a hard time persuading it not to cheat me out of the few little minutes I shall have to spend at Wesleyan.)

Somebody's books will be lying neglected on the table near the door where mine have spent so many idle moments, and somebody will be walking around the porch outside the parlor windows to see who are having dates within. The steps that come up from the tea room will creak as if they are in pain, and I shall glance around me unconsciously for a chance member of "exec" who might be watching, pencil and note-book in hand.

Upstairs, I shall forget I am an alumna! I shall forget that I do not know anything; I shall be a college student again with the problems of the world on my shoulders! I shall laugh a great deal, and believe with all my heart that the most awful calamity in the world would be for my class colors to be defeated!

I shall go to see all of the friends of mine, and shall try to squeeze into three days enough gladness to last me through all the lean weeks ahead.

I shall go to sleep in a white iron bed that is the duplicate of the one that was mine for four years, and I shall wake up with a thankfulness too deep for words, two minutes before breakfast. I shall fling my clothes on and tear down the four flights to breakfast as though my breakfast coffee depended on my getting there before six minutes after eight.

Sunday I shall feel again the peace of a twilight Vesper service, and the spirit of Wesleyan will be with me after I have gone back to my work again.

And Today

Here are the ones who were back for homecoming this year:

Wayne (Aiken) Burdell, Marion Allison, Roslyn Atkinson, Betty Atwater, Francina Brock, Virginia Callaway, Jane Camp, Emmie Carlton, Peggy Carswell, Evelyn (Cason) Wheeler, Betty Jane Daniel, Martha Daniel, Mary Lane Edwards, Louise Futrelle,

Margaret Mitchell, Jane (Morgan) Hogan, Faith Munford, Beth Parker, Sara Sherwood, Lucile Shi, Jean Walker, Billie (Ward) Gaines, Louise (Williams) Beall.

Phi Delta Phi Again Has a Member Speaker

Phi Delta Phi, the organization on the Wesleyan liberal arts campus honoring scholarship, brought to the student body the second member of the organization as speaker on Phi Delta Phi Day, Mamie Harmon, A.B. 1926, of New York.

The speaker has had a distinguished career in the fields of book publishing and art. She received the Master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1927. She lived abroad in 1928-32, teaching for two terms in China, and studying art under Chinese tutors and in Paris. She continued the study of art in New York at the Art Students' League.

For twelve years she was an editor with the Funk and Wagnalls Company, during which time she edited the International Encyclopedia Year Books, assembling for that publication a contributing staff which included some of the best-known scholars in America. She was Associate Editor of the 1946 edition of the College Standard Dictionary, her work for this being recognized particularly for the clarification of certain points in English style, and for an innovation of an underscored type to indicate accents.

She resigned as managing editor of Funk and Wagnalls reference books in 1945 in order to specialize in the art field. As an art editor she prepared probably the most widely used textbook for beginners in serious art, The Natural Way to Draw, a posthumous resume of the teaching methods of Kimon Nicolaides. As a practicing artist, she works in an experimental vein allied to symbolism. Her label for it is "connotative abstraction."

She is currently writing the material on primitive and folk art for the Standard Dictionary of Folklore, Mythology and Legend, the first volume of which was published last November. She is also active in the graphic arts field as a designer of books and book jackets. The jacket for the Standard Dictionary of Folklore, Mythology and Legend is her work. She is a member of the Institute of Graphic Arts.

Elizabeth (Harman) Woodall, Minnie Harmon, Frieda (Kaplan) Nadler

For her talk, she told something of what happens to a manuscript from the time it arrives at the publisher's until it appears on the book shelf. Freida (Kaplan) Nadler, President of Phi Delta Phi, presided.

During the day there arrived for the speaker a telegram bringing good wishes from her classmate, last year's phi Delta Phi speaker, Elizabeth Peck.

Wesleyan Alumna On Palestine Mission

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly, A.B. '03, has just returned from a special tour of Israel and Trans-Jordan sponsored by the American Christian Palestine Commission, the only woman among six religious leaders who made the trip.

The Commission on its return to America, made a report to the United Nations in which they stated that "any attempt to turn Jerusalem into an international area would be dangerous and unnecessary." Religious leaders of all faiths to whom the members of the group talked agreed that at one time it could have been done, but that was before the war between Arabs and Jews.

In place of internationalization, the church group recommended that the United Nations set up a commission with no territorial sovereignty to assure free accessibility of the Christian world to the holy places of Jerusalem.

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly is field representative of the Southern Regional Council, and was a member of President Truman's Commission on Civil Rights.

Alumnae Honored by National Society

Geraldine Wheeler and Margaret Edenfield, both A.B. '29, were recently elected to membership in Delta Kappa Gamma, the national society honoring teachers who have done outstanding work in their profession. Margaret teaches in Lanier Junior High for Girls in Macon and Gerry in the Vocational School in Macon.

Also members of the Society are Margaret Slocumb, A.B. '29; Ida Young, A.B. '33; Suellen (Morton) Boyette, A.B. '20; Celia Sharp, A.B. '32; Lois (Holder) Hagan, A.B. '29; and Agnes Barden, A.B. '90.

SOME ALUMNAE CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

We have thought before of using pictures of children in the alumnae magazine, but how would you choose from all those of our alumnae family? Finally, we decided to plunge in, and as a beginning have selected some Christmas pictures of children with Wesleyan backgrounds.

From now on we invite any Wesleyan alumna to send us a picture of her children or grandchildren, and as far as our space will permit, we will use them in the magazine.

Betsy, "Skippy" (Hubert Jr.), and Jane Searcy, children of Christine (Quillian) Searcy, A.B. '33, grandchildren of Dr. William F. Quillian, former president, and of Nonie (Acree) Quillian, B.M. '09;

Reginald III and Carol Lyons Gray, children of Eloise (Ainsworth) Gray, A.B. '41; grandchildren of Kate (Lyons) Ainsworth, '22; great-grandchildren of the late Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, former president of Wesleyan, and of Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth, A.B. '91;

Tommy Arnold, son of Lina (Jones) Arnold, A.B. '46, grandson of Florence (Trimble) Jones, A.B. '20, president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association;

Kate, Martha and Lucy Williams, daughters of Ida (Stephens) Williams, A.B. '40, granddaughters of Lucy (Evans) Stephens, A.B. '98;

John Drewry Comer III, son of Mary (Anderson) Comer, A.B. '43, grandson of Annie (Gantt) Anderson, A.B. '13, former national president of the Alumnae Association;

Margaret Ann Rutland, daughter of Elizabeth (Jones) Rutland, A.B. '45; granddaughter of the Rev. H. H. Jones, Wesleyan Trustee, and of Annie (Dickey) Jones, A.B. '13; great-granddaughter of Jessie (Monroe) Dickey, A.B. '87, and of the late Ida (Rogers) Jones, 1879;

Tommy and Baxter James, sons of Roberta (Jones) James, A.B. '43; grandsons of Kitty (Cater) Jones, A.B. '17; great-grandsons of the late Roberta (Hardeman) Jones, '86; great-great-grandsons of the late Tabitha Jane (Guyton) Parks, '47; Amelia (Wimberly) Cater, '44; and Lucia (Griswold) Hardeman, '62.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION TO OFFER AWARDS

By Rebecca (Caudill) Ayars,
Alumnae Trustee

Since a recent meeting of the Wesleyan Board of Managers, the Alumnae Association is out with a spyglass looking for certain alumnae. What do we want with them? We want to say, with very special ceremony, that we are proud of them!

Since the days of Catherine (Brewer) Benson Wesleyan alumnae have been distinguishing themselves in many different ways. The majority have married and become homemakers. Perhaps some have been just ordinary homemakers. (The law of averages is a rigid yardstick, measuring off so many ordinary, so many extraordinary.) Nevertheless, we have still to be convinced that a homemaker with a Wesleyan background can be "just ordinary." We do know that many Wesleyan alumnae have employed such vivid imagination, sound wisdom, and splendid faith in human beings as they went about their dusting and cooking, and have gone about their tasks of mothering their children, companioning their husbands, and serving their communities in such a way that "distinguished" is the only word that can describe them.

Then there are the teachers. (Will all Wesleyan alumnae who have at one time or another taught school raise their hands? See how many there are!) Again, the law of averages tells us that some of these must have been just "ordinary" teachers. And again, we have to be convinced that any teacher with a Wesleyan background can be just ordinary. We know how many of them to whom the word "Distinguished" should be applied. Do you?

To call the roll of fields in which Wesleyan alumnae have served would be to begin at "a" and go to "z:" art, aviation, business administration, ceramics, creative writing, dress design, journalism, law, medicine, music, nursing, radio, the stage, etc. All over the world, Wesleyan women are serving with distinction.

It is the purpose of the Alumnae Association to find these persons and each commencement, on Alumnae Day, to honor one or more of them.

As this is being written it is planned to have two awards or citations: one to be known as The Alumnae Award for Distinguished Achievement, and to be given to that alumna or alumnae chosen by a special committee named for the purpose of reviewing outstanding careers.

The second will be: The Alumnae Award for Distinguished Service to Wesleyan. This will be awarded to that alumna or alumnae who, in the opinion of the committee best served the college with loyalty and devotion. Over the country there are many alumnae who with love and energy and enthusiasm have carried Wesleyan's burdens on their shoulders. This Award is our way of saying "thank you" to them.

It will not always be an easy task to select these alumnae most deserving of awards. We are asking every alumna who reads this to take pen in hand and nominate an alumna for each award if you feel that you know one who deserves it. A coupon for this purpose is printed below.

In suggesting an alumna for each award, please state specifically the reasons you consider the alumna worthy of the award.

For the Distinguished Achievement Award, give such facts as positions held, honors received, work in the community or profession, etc. If you haven't a complete record, suggest, if you can, the name of someone who can supply it.

In nominating an alumna for the Distinguished Service Award, state specifically whether she has worked untiringly in Wesleyan's financial campaigns, whether she has been instrumental in sending good students to Wesleyan, has served on some committee working on a project for Wesleyan, etc. Again, be specific, and if you cannot supply all the information, give the name of someone who can.

Nominations may be submitted by others than alumnae.

An Awards Committee, appointed by the President of the Alumnae Association, will verify the data on each nominee and select alumnae for the awards. The Alumnae Board of Managers will make the final selection from recommendations of the Awards Committee.

The Awards will be announced on Alumnae Day each Commencement.

The floor is now open for nominations! Let's have a flood of them, from all over the country!

'She Loves Me — She Loves Me Not'

Did you get a "Valentine" recently reminding you of the Wesleyan Alumnae Loyalty Fund?

Chances are, it came from a classmate you have not heard from in a long time, and brought pleasant memories of your Wesleyan days. (If your Valentine came from the Alumnae Office it was because your Class Fund Agent could not take the responsibility this year for some reason. And if you did not get one at all, it was because we do not have your correct address on our files; won't you send it?)

Here is how it happened: long ago we wrote to a group of alumnae, selected at random from all the classes, and said, "May we count on your help in mailing out the Loyalty Fund messages to ten classmates?"

Their response was most gratifying, and we had almost enough help to take care of the entire list. In cases where someone said she could not, the office staff sent the Valentine reminders.

If she wished, a Class Fund Agent could select names of classmates she wished to send her Valentines to. (Sometimes when several selected one name, we had to draw straws.)

Next year we may as you to help as a Class Fund Agent. Please od if you possibly can!

The Alumnae 'Assistant Admissions Counselors'

The job of the Fourth Vice-President of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association is to do all that she can to further a close contact between Wesleyan and the high schools, to help Wesleyan to choose the best students for the college and conservatory.

Your newly elected fourth vice-president, Jane Anne (Mallet) Settle of Jackson, Georgia, has already made amazing headway in the few months of her term of office.

First, she met with Wesleyan representatives at the college in the fall to outline a plan of action. It was decided that she should ask some alumna in each city and town in the state and nearby states to act as "Admissions Counselor" to assist Wesleyan's Counselor on Admissions, Mr. T. M. Purcell, and to follow up his contacts in each section. These alumnae are to be a sort of "big sister" to high school girls and boys interested in going to college, and to tell them what Wesleyan has to offer. To their Alma Mater, they are to act as sources of "inside information" on the young people they know, to tell the college about outstanding ones, to distribute to the high schools the material Wesleyan sends them, to make recommendations for scholarships and other forms of student aid, etc.

Already Jane Anne has secured a promise of aid from 50 alumnae, and expects to add to this list. The advent of "Little Janey" into her household in January somewhat slowed things down, and Jane Anne asks that we suggest to each of you who read this:

If there is not, as yet, an alumna "Admissions Counselor" in your community, and you are willing to take on this responsibility for your college, won't you write and tell her so? We shall greatly appreciate it, and so will Jane Anne!

Wesleyan Girls Credited With Starting Church

Thanks to the efforts of a group of Wesleyan College students, there is a new Methodist church in the city, Southside Methodist, one of the newest in the South Georgia Conference.

The idea began in November, 1948, when District Superintendent D. G. Mann asked the college girls for help. Five girls surveyed the south Macon area, visited 2,000 homes and determined that there was a need for the church. They were Nancy Black of Clearwater, Fla. (who completed work for the A.B. degree at the end of the first semester this year); Kate Haywood, A.B. '49, now assistant in music and youth work at Asbury Methodist Church in Savannah; Frances Smith, A.B. '49, working on her M.A. in religious education at Emory; Virginia Moore, junior at Wesleyan; and Betty Strom, A.B. '49, now teaching in a girls' school in Kolar, India on a three-year missionary service.

As a result of the survey, the Methodist Board of Missions and Church Extension purchased property on Houston Avenue. A tent went up in April. Nancy Black has served as assistant to the pastor of the church this year, and many other Wesleyan girls have helped in the work of the new church.

May We Introduce

Julian Strickland
... of Valdosta

Mr. Julian Strickland of Valdosta was elected a member of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees to succeed Mr. James Hyde Porter.

President of the Strickland Cotton Mills and of the A. J. Strickland Company, Mr. Strickland has had a prominent place in the growth of his section of Georgia. He is Chairman of the Board of Trustees and member of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church of Valdosta.

Director of the First National Bank, of the First Federal Savings and Loan Company, and of the Valdosta Daily Times, he has also found time to be Director of the Valdosta Boys Club, a trustee of Lake Junaluska, and a trustee of Emory Junior College in Valdosta.

He is married, and the father of five children.

Mrs. Horn Dies

Soon after Wesleyan opened after the Christmas holidays, the college was saddened by the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Raiford Horn, mother of Annabel Horn, A.B. '06, assistant to the president, and of Vernon Horn, A.B. '07, of Chicago.

Mrs. Horn celebrated her 97th birthday in the summer, but was in good health generally and interested in happenings about her until only a few days before her death. One of the Wesleyan scholarships several years ago was given by her daughter, Annabel, in her honor.

Representatives Attend Conference

"The Christian Use of Power" was the timely and well-chosen theme of the Fourth National Methodist Student Conference which was held at the University of Illinois December 27-January 1. Among the 2,200 delegates were seven from Wesleyan, her full quota: Mary Halland, Decatur; Kathryn Jones, Atlanta; Charlotte Theodocian, Smyrna; Pauline Buhl, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Eugene Barton, Atlanta; Thad Grimes, Columbus; and Miss Mildred Hudgins of the department of religion.

All kinds of power, economic, political, class, race, atomic, and personal power were discussed. Outstanding leaders such as Dean Liston Pope of Yale Divinity School, Dean Walter Muelder of Boston University School of Theology, Dean Harold Bosley of Duke, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Bishop Richard Raines, and Bishop Hazen G. Werner (the father of Joy Werner, Wesleyan alumna).

Climax of the conference was the closing address by Bishop Raines on "The Power of a Consecrated Person." Students and teachers came away with these words ringing in their ears: "The world needs many little people who are great in their commitment. A cross is something which no one could reasonably ask you to take, but which you take voluntarily. It sets a little man free to become a big man."

The conference closed with a great hymn of consecration: "Make me a captive, Lord, and then I shall be free!"

Cossacks and Glee Club in Concert

In January the Don Cossacks and the Wesleyan Glee Club (the latter under the direction of Vladimir Zorin, formerly of the Cossack Chorus) gave a joint concert in the Pierce chapel at Wesleyan, singing to a capacity house.

The first and third parts of the program were by the inimitable Cossacks at their best. The middle group of songs was sung by 100 Wesleyan girls, looking (as one 1840 writer described a Wesleyan graduating class) "lovely as angels, and dressed in white," and singing with beauty and confidence.

It was the first time in three years that the Cossacks had been to Wesleyan, the last occasion being under the sponsorship of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Macon.

THE ALUMNAE LOYALTY FUND

A new Alumnae Loyalty Fund year began on September 1, 1949.

The period of the Loyalty Fund just preceding that date included, by vote of the Alumnae Council, two years instead of one—the two years of the Second Century Fund Campaign for endowment. The reason for this was that alumnae were asked to give to only one Wesleyan cause. Those who wished to pledge to the Second Century Fund were not asked for annual gifts to the Loyalty Fund; some who preferred to give annually did so.

During the two-year period, 2,006 alumnae gave a total of $121,674.23 to Wesleyan through either the Second Century Fund or the Alumnae Loyalty Fund. The eight issues of the Alumnae Magazine which came out during this period carried the names of these alumnae, the final list appearing in the November 1949 magazine.

Now we are well into the 1949-50 year, and already 212 alumnae have sent in their gifts in response to a note which went out from the Alumnae Office in the fall. These names appear below, and these alumnae have given a total of $2,148.50 to date. Additional names will be used in each issue of the magazine this year.

About the time that this issue of the magazine reaches you, you will have another reminder about the Fund. If your gift has already been mailed, you may expect to see your name in the class list in the May magazine! If you have not sent it, you may do so at any time before September 1, 1950 and be credited with a gift to this year's Loyalty Fund.

(This list includes those alumnae who have given from September 1, 1949 to date of going to press.)

In addition to these, the Washington Alumnae Club and the Columbus Alumnae Club have sent in $50.00 each for scholarships. Mrs. Ruby Harrell, Wesleyan postmistress, although not herself an alumna, sent a gift to the fund because she enjoys the Alumnae magazine and wants to have a part in the Loyalty Fund.

CLUBS

AUGUSTA CLUB

Elizabeth B. Jones, A.B. '29, is the newly elected president of the Wesleyan Club of Augusta, succeeding Margie (Fiske) Stewart, B.M. '45, whose term expired.

On January 31 the club joined Mr. T. M. Purcell, Wesleyan's Counselor on Admissions, at a College Day Meeting at Tubman High School in Augusta, and after telling the high school girls just how grand Wesleyan is, gathered downtown for a luncheon meeting.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The December meeting of the Washington Club was held at the home of Carol Arnold, '25. Ex-Representative Robert Ramspeck and his charming wife were present, he being the speaker for the occasion.

TEXAS CLUB

Four Wesleyan alumnae living now in Texas met at the Bright Shawl restaurant in San Antonio on November 16 for the first meeting of the Texas Wesleyan Club. Lillian (Mann) Jauquet was the initiator of the gathering, and is president of the new club.

STUDENTS RUN COLLEGE FOR TWO DAYS

In January the administrative offices of the college were turned over to students for two days. One Student from each campus served as staff-member in one office of the liberal arts and conservatory campus.

In the Alumnae Office Mary Lewis, junior, on the Rivoli campus, and Betty Hobgood, senior, on the conservatory campus, served as "Alumnae Directors," opening and answering the mail from alumnae, meeting with committees, looking over files, etc. Here's what Mary said of the experience:

"Two days in the Alumnae Office have taught me more about the history of the college and the work of the alumnae than I have learned in my three years here. I am convinced that the Alumnae Association is one of Wesleyan's most vital and creative departments. Through it, former Wesleyannes can use the memories and ideals of their own college days as an impetus for the things they do for the college today. And I am amazed at all that the alumnae do for the college and for us, its students of the present!"

Kitty (Stewart) Bird's death occurred in August at the age of 92 after a long illness. She had been a resident of Guyton for more than 70 years and was an active member of the Methodist Church there, teaching a Church School Class until her retirement at the age of 83. She was formerly president of the Woman's Missionary Society and later a Circle was named for her. Her husband, the late Angus E. Bird, was superintendent of the Effingham County Schools for many years.

Sympathy is extended to Josephine (Whitehurst) Rozar in the death of her son, Dr. Allen Robert Rozar of Macon on December 11. He was a prominent physician of Macon, a brother of Miss Nanette Rozar, dietitian of Wesleyan Conservatory, and father of Zoe (Rozar) Moore, '35.

Word reached Wesleyan in January of the death of India (Holt) Rambo, who was honored as the "oldest reunioner" last Commencement. Although she was blind for 14 years, she had learned to read Braille and was alert and interested in everything about her all her life. She spoke to other reunioners on Alumnae Day, telling them of her college days.

1885

Marion (Luse) Chenery was awarded the honorary Master of Arts degree by Tufts College at their 93rd commencement in 1949, the citation reading as follows: "Marion Luse Chenery, devoted wife of a great physician, musician, world traveler, and philanthropist, by your Christian zeal you have strengthened the religious, educational, and musical life of America and of the world."

1886

Annie Belle (Cox) Lanier writes that she plans to come back to Wesleyan for her class reunion.

Blanche (Hall) Neel and her husband, Joseph N. Neel, had all of their children with them for Mr. Neel's ninety-third birthday in January. Although he has not been well for some months, Mr. Neel was able to be up and with his family for this occasion. A son, Roland, and three daughters, all of whom are Wesleyan alumnae, were with him, Leonora (Neel) Krenson, Gladys (Neel) Dickey, and Blanche (Neel) Earnest.

Emma Smith's sister, Nannie, had the misfortune to break her leg in their home on Rogers Avenue the day after Christmas. She is recovering after some time in the hospital.

Ella (Anderson) Winter of Dothan, Alabama, is in her eightieth year but is still enthusiastic about Wesleyan. She lives with her son, Alphonse A. Winter. Frances Strohecker, business manager of Wesleyan, is her cousin.

1892

The class of 1892 will be grieved to learn of the death of Frances Lee (Herrington) Burton of Waynesboro after an illness of two weeks on December 30. Sympathy is extended to her two daughters, one of whom is Mamie Burton, Conservatory 1928.

1893

Annie K. Bannon lives now in Athens. Within the past several years she has lost two brothers, Horace Powers Bannon and Charles P. Bannon, both of Washington, D. C. Her sister-in-law, Daisy (Thomas) Bannon, A.B. 1895, lives in Alexandria, Va.

Sympathy is extended to Minnie Robertson in the death of her sister, Mrs. Calhoun, on December 30.

Shirley (Allmon) Warren's Wesleyan friends will be grieved to learn of her death on November 4 after a long illness. She is survived by her husband, O. H. Warren of Tuscaloosa, retired, by two sons and a daughter; Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Warren (parents of a daughter, Mitzi); Mr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Warren, Jr. (parents of two sons, Edward Dautzler and Oliver Holmes III), and Hermione (Warren) Lightfoot, (Mrs. Ben Lightfoot), who has two sons, Ben, Jr., and Warren. Her only sister is Stella (Allman) Wooton, A.B. 1893, of Dallas, Texas.

Aliene (Pitts) Corry and her husband, Dr. John A. Corry of Barnesville, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on August 14 and were extended good wishes by scores of friends and relatives throughout the state.

Receiving with them were their children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Corry and their daughters, Louise and Elizabeth, of Barnesville; Dr. John Pitts Corry of Atlanta; Mrs. Ailene Corry Arensbach and her daughter, Corry, of Savannah; and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Corry and son, John, of Dayton, Ohio.

Prior to the reception, Dr. and Mrs. Corry and their family attended Sunday morning worship service at the First Methodist Church, and had communion in a private service conducted by the pastor, Dr. E. Nash Broyles. The loving cup handed down from generation to generation in the family of Mrs. Corry, the Pitts family, was used.

Sorrow came to Dr. and Mrs. Corry on October 10 when they lost their beloved son, Emory, who died of a heart attack at his home here. Emory, an unusually lovable young man, was only 42 years of age and his death brought sadness to all Barnesville people.

Vera (Clinton) McBirney of Tulsa, Oklahoma, writes of her children: Dorothy, who is Mrs. Robert Hardy, has moved to Seattle, Washington; and Martha, who is Mrs. Red Bradley, to Evergreen, Colorado. So Vera is separated by long distances from all except Donald and his wife, Elizabeth, who are still in Tulsa. Vera's Wesleyan classmates will recall that Martha accompanied her mother to the class reunion in 1928, and Donald in 1947.

Lena (Heath) Montgomery of Charlotte, N. C., became a great-grandmother on Christmas Eve, her oldest granddaughter having her first child, Jacob Ernest Wiggins III.

The class of 1903 will be grieved to learn of the death of Flewellyn (Strong) Phillips of Thomasville on January 16. She was the daughter of the late Flewellyn (Evans) Strong, A.B. '71, and the mother of Claire (Flowers) Varnedoe, A.B. '27, to whom sympathy is extended. Always loyal to her Alma Mater, had promised to be "Class Agent" for the Loyalty Fund this year.

1904

Gladys (Tilley) Chambers sails in February for a trip around South America.

1906

Sympathy is extended to Martha (Lewis) Kaderly in the tragic death in an apartment house fire of her son, William Kaderly, Jr., on November 27.

1907

Lauretta (Cappel) Kiple and her husband live in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where she is a member of the Woman's Club and of the Garden Club. She has a married daughter living in Columbus with whom Lauretta and her husband spent Christmas.

Willie (Erminger) Mallary's grandson, Nelson Dogg Mallary III, started school last fall in Marietta, Ga.

Nannaline (King) Byrd has a new grandson, Mitchell King Byrd, son of Madison Byrd, Jr., and his wife. Her other son, Jim, and his wife are building a new home in Winter Park, Fla.

1908

Maybelle (Jones) Dewey's distinguished husband, Dr. M. H. Dewey, was recently honored when his portrait was presented to Emory.

1909

Blanche (Moss) Logan's daughter, Mary Louisa (now Mrs. McKernon) received her A.B. from Colorado State College in 1948 and is now working on her M.A. at Denver Library School while her husband teaches in Denver.

Petrona (Humber) Hean discovered to her surprise last fall that some unknown person had written her name in for School Director on the Democratic ticket in Harrisburg, Penn., and she got 9,683 votes, more than the other two Democratic candidates together!

Josephine (Jeffords) Herrin was invited to read her poems at a dinner meeting of the Atlanta Writers Club last spring, having won both first prizes in poetry offered to members of the club. Earlier another of her poems had tied for a first award. Josie holds memberships in the Poetry Society of Georgia and the Georgia Writers Association and has published articles in newspapers and national periodicals. She makes her home with her brother, Dr. Tom Jeffords of Sylvester, but goes back to Savannah frequently to see her two sons and eight grandchildren.

Beatrice (Lambdin) O'Keeffe recently moved to her lovely new home on Habersham Road in Atlanta, near her sister, Sophie Mae (Lambdin) Coppedge, '14.

Ruth (Vickers) Fulwood of Tifton, Director of the American Rose Society, spoke in Macon on January 11 to the Men's Garden Club.

Anne (Cunningham) Crittenden's classmates will be grieved to learn of her death in a New York hospital in January after an illness of several weeks. She was active in church and P.-T. A. work in Birmingham, Ala., and had served as president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club there. She is survived by her husband, a son, Dr. W. C. Crittenden, with the U. S. Navy, her mother, and a sister.

Sympathy is extended to Laurian Johnson in the death of her father on November 9.

Kathleen (Holder) Griffin left January 8 for a Mediterranean cruise to be away from Atlanta seven weeks. She writes: "I see Floye (Powell) Dumas and Mary (Robeson) Boardman occasionally. Last summer when Anne (Marchman) Malone was here from Montclair, N. J., I had eight old Wesleyan friends for lunch at the Brookhaven Country Club."

Margaret (Akerman) Menard and her husband had a delightful visit in the fall to Boulder, Colorado where their son, Prof. Albert Menard, Jr., and his wife live. Albert, Jr., is on the faculty of Colorado University this year, having gone there from Wake Forest College in North Carolina. Margaret's Christmas card was a lovely one with a Madonna which was the work of Helena E. (Ogden) Campbell, who secured for Wesleyan the lovely collection of contemporary paintings as gifts from the artists. Margaret told of a delightful visit she and her daughter had with Helena, and also told of an exhibition of Helena's paintings during the month of December at the Bronxville, N. Y. Library.

Anita (Morgan) Board's husband has been transferred from a position as director of Pinson College in Camaguey, Cuba, to that of instructor at The Bolles School in Jacksonville, Fla., where they have a fourteen-year-old son, Joey. Their daughter, Josephine (Board) Bradley, '38, also lives in Jacksonville, and has a six-year-old son.

Annie Lois (Stowe) Fleming is teaching first grade in Madison. Her sons, Julian and Allen, are both happily married and living in Atlanta, and each has a small daughter. Gordon, her nineteen-year-old, is at Keesler Field.

Helen (Stubbs) Bridger's daughter, Gere, has two children, Bobby, 4, and Martha, 2. Her son, Baldwin, Jr., has been a test engineer for G.E. since his graduation from Emory with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1948. Helen enjoys living next door to Mary (Armand) Ellis in Savannah, and says she has a grandson now as well as a granddaughter.

Mitta (Pharr) Chesshyre's only son, Sherman Fields, finished high school last term and is now attending Southern College at Lakeland, Fla., to study citrus growing. Her adopted daughter, Mrs. S. A. Brown, Jr., of West Palm Beach has a daughter of her own.

1919

Jane (Cater) Sargent's son, Lawton Griswold Sargent, Jr., was married in the fall to Audrey Emmy Meyer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Willy Meyer of New York City. One of the bridesmaids was Helen (Farmer) Popejoy, A.B. '44, daughter of Jane's sister, Helen (Cater) Farmer, '13.

1920
